The federal government has regulations governing the domestic content of material used in federally funded projects. These rules are often referred to as Buy America provisions. In short, all steel and iron products, as well as steel and iron components of manufactured products, must be produced in the U.S., regardless of the overall steel/iron content of the product or components. Manufactured products which do not contain steel or iron, are exempt from Buy America.

As CSX is subject to compliance audits for the Buy America program, the CSX Law department has determined that CSX should seek positive confirmation of compliance with these regulations. Please answer the attached questions at the link below in regard to the material accompanying this notice and return it to me by E-mail.

Please note that there are other federal programs with different requirements than those alluded to in the attachment. However, as projects covered by these other programs are rare, we will deal with those requirements when such projects arise.

Thank you.
